WHAT IS A WANT AD?

Nine out of ten people will answer that question this way: "Why, it's a little advertisement for Help Wanted or Situation Wanted."

J. F. NEWMAN STILL HAS THE HIGH VOTE

Wm. Sherman Takes Second Place In The 3rd District by Voting About 20,000—Miss Grace "Dade" Conroy Again Assumes the Lead Among the Ladies, and Tom Donnelly Takes First Place in the Gentlemen's List—Who Will Be There at Finish?

NO BALLOTS IN THE PAPER AFTER TODAY

Read the Closing Rules Tomorrow—Still Four Days Ahead, and Much Can Be Accomplished in That Time—Increase Your Already Large Stock of Certificate Votes; You Will Need Them on the Last Day.

No contestant is in more danger of defeat than the persons who feel their position secure and are content to stop and rest where they are, while someone else keeps busy and walks off with the coveted prize. The way to win, and the only way, is to keep constantly at it. Only four more days.

All of the candidates who have made an effort may well feel proud of the generous support given them by their many friends. It is now your duty to these friends to "keep a-going" and make their efforts count for something. Be a winner.

Up to the present time this is one of the prettiest races ever witnessed by the contest manager and the prizes and honors are still within the reach of any candidate who will go out after them for the next four days.

The rural districts have the voting fever very bad and as a result considerable shifting in positions occur daily. There is no one in the race who holds a safe position.

The rules for the closing of this contest will be published Friday and should be carefully read by all concerned.

There will be no more ballots published in the paper. From today on it will be certificates only. Get all you can.

No votes are given out except upon payment of subscriptions and none can be bought. Votes are not transferable and once issued to a candidate are recorded by number and not by name and can't be voted for any other candidate.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, July 8, 1867. Personal.—Hon. C. A. Eldridge has our thanks for Congressional favors under his frank.

Personal.—Hon. Malt H. Carpenter and Hon. James Ross are in the city.

Woman Suffrage Convention.—The mass convention called by—nobody knows who—to meet in this city to inaugurate a movement to secure the right of suffrage for women carefully eluded the vigilance of our reporter up to the hour of going to press, which is 5 p. m. We suspect that it was a mass convention that didn't mass much on account of the weather.

Personal.—We were glad to receive a call this morning from Hon. W. J. Abrams, who has so many years represented the Green Bay district in the popular branch of the state legislature. Mr. A. is the agent of the Lake Superior Iron Companies and is here to solicit orders from our foundries and manufacturers for their iron which is the best in the world for certain uses.

A Serious Runaway.—Between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning the double team of Chas. Vetter, of Harmony, became frightened by the whiplerette striking one of the horse's heels as they were coming down North Second street and ran. Mr. and Mrs. Vetter were thrown out, Mr. V. being stunned. The horses kept on running and parted company a little further down the street with their vehicle which was demolished.

Council Meeting.—At the meeting of the city council last night Alderman Bates introduced an ordinance authorizing John McAlpin to raise and repair the building formerly known as Bob Williams' blacksmith shop which was passed. Alderman Webber from the fire department committee, stated that the city could compromise the contract for the purchase of hose, by taking 1,000 feet; that the agent would be in the city of the nine o'clock train and asked that the matter be deferred till that time.

Vespasian Warner.

Vespasian Warner, a former congressman from Illinois, and now United States commissioner of pensions, was born at Mt. Pleasant (now Farmer City), Ill., on April 23d, 1842, but when only one year of age was taken by his parents to Clinton, Ill., where he has had a legal residence ever since. He was educated at the village academy in Clinton and served in the Union army from 1861 until the close of the war. He then resumed his education and finally graduated in law from Harvard university in 1868. Commissioner Warner served several terms in congress and was appointed as U. S. pension commissioner on January 16th, 1905.

OUR GERMAN AGREEMENT.

Some critics of the new commercial agreement between Germany and the United States—which went into effect July 1—complain that there are still articles of American export into the empire of the Kaiser that will be subjected to the extremely high rates of tariff imposed by the recently-enacted law there. This is true. But from computations made by German statisticians it appears that they constitute only about 3.31 per cent, on a valuation basis, of all the goods that we have been sending into the empire of late. So, through our having extended to Germany the special tariff concessions permissible under the third section of the Dingley act, she allows more than 96 per cent of her imports from the United States to enter her domains under the "most-favored-nation" treatment, whether that happens to be absolutely free entry or at the lowest rates accorded to the corresponding products of other countries. There is only the very smallest ground for complaint there. And it is true also that in some of the goods still subject to the highest German duties our export trade to that country amounts to little or nothing. It is estimated that American products entering Germany in the next fiscal year will pay $6,664,000 less in duties than they would have been compelled to pay had no commercial agreement with her been reached.

How does Germany fare, meantime? Our own statisticians in Washington say that the total value of German goods that will participate in the benefit of this new agreement amounted in the fiscal year 1906 to only $1,861,255, or only 1.4 per cent of our total importation of German goods in that year. And our United States treasury will therefore collect duties on Germany's goods next year probably only about $208,168 less than if no concessions had been made to her. The advantage appears to be decidedly with the American people, so far.

As to details, some of them are particularly interesting. Germany lets our wheat in at a 5.5-marks tax on one hundred kilos under the new agreement, whereas the general tariff rate is 7.5 marks. On barley other than for malting purposes she imposes a tax of only 1.3 marks, while the regular duty on it is 7 marks—but she sets the malting-barley tax at 4 marks. The regular rate on "meats prepared for the table"—in other words, "canned stuff"—is 120 marks per one hundred kilos, but Germany cuts it down to only 75 marks for American meats so prepared; the concession to us on "simply-prepared meats" is almost one-half of the regular tax; but on hogs the cut-down is to exactly 9 marks from 18 marks.

Furthermore, confidential customs agents of the United States treasury department will now have the status of diplomatic officers in Germany and will be regularly attached to our American embassies and legations. Here is another distinct advantage in addition to the strictly commercial one.

Americans have no cause to protest at the administration's application of reciprocity provision of the Dingley act in this instance.

Judge Lindsey, who recently spoke here, at the Sunday School meeting, has said some real mean things about Colorado's new United States Senator. From the way in which he says them one would think he really believed them to be true.

The state legislature has adjourned—has gone back into the dim past of former years with the proud distinction of having been the longest yet on record.

Chicago papers are booming Uncle Joe for that presidency. In order to make the sentiment a little stronger they should have him offered a highball and have him refuse to drink it.

Is it possible that the Five-Cent theatres of Janesville are to be included in the hundred-million-dollar trust just organized by theatrical men?

Perhaps The Hague Peace conference will appoint an attorney General to prosecute all these big armor plate trusts so as to reduce the cost of war material.

Surely that one-hundred-million-dollar theatre trust should be investigated carefully before it is allowed to place its hands upon the American public.

About all the mourners for the late General Alkhanoft who went up with a bound when the dynamite exploded will be paid by the yard.

It was no new experience for Tolstoi to read his own obituary notice. The Russian government have had one standing for many years past.

It requires considerable skill apparently for Americans residing in the English Empire to be kept from being sent to the House of Commons.

Down in Pennsylvania a couple were married and an hour later decided to separate. No time to repent at leisure in this case.

Soon Uncle Sam's engineers will have begun work in making the Rock county roads passable during all seasons of the year.

The Rock Island road says it has gone out of politics. This is a wonderful declaration for any big corporation to make.

So the railroads are going to take a hand in workings of that two-cent fare law after all. Well, it is not surprising.

The talk of giving a parole to Stensland, the famous Milwaukee avenue Chicago banker, has dropped but it will probably be renewed later.

Count Tolstoi must have an excellent grip on life to be able to be alive after all those obituary notices have been written about him.

Who would have thought it was a trust that kept up the price of butter. Everyone thought it was the general era of prosperity.

Why not have the Elks' conclave in Philadelphia say something about Nature Fakirs for the benefit of the general public?

Out in the town of Center a mile of good roads is to be built, the first township in the county to actually begin work.

An interurban between Janesville and Madison would mean much to this city in the way of prosperity.

Mayor Schmitz may have ceased his official labors, but his works will follow after him for years to come.

Count Boni De Castellane goes now into the class of has-beens. Any job ought to be welcome to him.

England is not going to let that naughty Jap boy hurt us, so we can go to sleep nights now.

Vice President Fairbanks was lost at a way-station for some hours, and no one really missed him.

Great Britain has a yellow peril all of its own, but it does not talk about it in public.

The telegraph situation is still in the hands of the friends of the electrical agents.

Sir Conan Doyle is to be married. Well, Conan, what will Dr. Watson say to that?

Peace has its terrors, too, especially in the turrets of the modern battleship.

Apparently the weather men have had a touch of insanity even over in Europe.

WILLIAMS SAYS—Children are often blamed for not getting along with their lessons, when the real fault is in their eyes, though unsuspected by parent or teacher. If children need glasses it is cruelly not to have them; if they don't need them the fact should be known. A scientific examination will remove all doubt. I make no charge for examination.

AGED PROWLER IS A MILWAUKEE MAN

By Conversing in Swiss Prof. W. T. Thiele Yesterday Discovered Identity of Stranger.

The aged prowler who visited the second ward early yesterday morning, frightening residents and driving Mrs. Harry Sheldon into hysterics, is probably Gottlieb Gruner of 1009 Fourth avenue, Milwaukee, and he will be given into the care of relatives. While he was being held at the city hall yesterday, Marshal Appleby was unable to learn anything from the man. Late yesterday afternoon Prof. W. T. Thiele visited the station and after endeavoring to converse with the man in German talked fluently in that language Gruner talked fluently and revealed his identity. At times he was rational, but in telling of being brought from Milton to the poorhouse he referred to the institution as a monastery and told of being worsted in his attempt to drink a monk for refusing to pray for him. Marshal Appleby located Gruner's family at the address given and the unfortunate man will be turned over to the care of a son, who is expected to arrive at any time.

WAREHOUSES COME UNDER FACTORY LAW

Inspector in City Today Rules That Children Under Fourteen Cannot Work in Tobacco.

It was announced by a state factory inspector, who visited the city today, that the factory laws of Wisconsin apply to tobacco warehouses. This means that a large number of children under fourteen years can no longer work in tobacco after school hours and that those under sixteen must have permits. This ruling will effect the children and not the employers as the piece-work system governs the payroll with but few exceptions.

Janesville Man and Thos. Earle of Edgerton, Discovered Westberry's Body at Kegonsa Yesterday.

John F. Sweeney of this city and Thos. Earle of Edgerton were the "fishermen" who yesterday found the body of Geo. Westberry of Milwaukee, who was drowned in Lake Kegonsa Sunday noon. Upon approaching it they discovered that it was the body of Westberry, which many of the resorters at the lake had been looking for since Sunday. Mr. Sweeney and Mr. Earle searched 11 hours for the body on Tuesday, spending all of the day dragging the bottom of the lake with the hope of locating the corpse.

MISS PHILLIPS' WORK.

Her Work Here a Revelation to the Ladies of Janesville.
Miss Phillips' demonstration of E. Burham's toilet requisites at E. B. Heimstreet's drug store has been a revelation to the ladies of Janesville. She has taken some of the worst cases of crow's feet, wrinkles and absolute removal of them on at least half a dozen well known ladies in this city. On account of the publicity it would cause, their names are not published, but when interviewed each one of these ladies looked from ten to twenty years younger than she did two weeks ago.

Miss Phillips took one lady especially who was completely covered with freckles and had a very dark, coarse skin, which caused her a great deal of annoyance and after demonstrating on her face a few wrinkles, had closed up all the pores and had put her skin into a youthful, healthy condition.

Miss Phillips assures the public that any lady can do the same in the privacy of her own home, if she will merely follow the instructions given in E. Burham's booklet, "How to Be Beautiful," using the toilet articles mentioned therein according to instructions.

Another case in particular is that of a lady with double chin. With a few treatments of Burham's Massage Cream and Skin Tightener, this double chin disappeared, and it certainly made the lady look at least 100 per cent better. Many of the ladies will know to whom we refer.

Miss Phillips will be at Heimstreet's drug store for several days more.

N. W. CONDUCTOR IS INJURED AT HARVARD

Jos. McDonald of This City Suffered Fracture of Collarbone and Dislocated 'Knee-Joint in Jumping from Train.

In jumping from the accommodation train on the North-Western road at Harvard yesterday, Conductor Jos. McDonald suffered a fracture in the collarbone and a dislocation in the right knee-joint which injuries will prevent his returning to work for several weeks, it is thought. McDonald was riding on the accommodation train with the intention of getting off at the yards in Harvard to take his freight train out of that place. Because of the fast speed at which the accommodation was running the conductor was thrown violently to the ground when he jumped. Besides the fractured collarbone and the dislocated knee-joint he is said to have received internal injuries and bruises on the body from the fall. He was taken to the hospital at Harvard and will receive treatment there until he can be moved to his home in this city. Mrs. McDonald has gone to Harvard to assist in nursing her husband.

Too Badly Crushed: Joe Dampsey is about on crutches as the result of having the big toe on his left foot badly mashed under a falling box, while he was working in the North-Western freight depot.

In the large cities the small depositor goes to the small banking institutions as the great banks are so enormous that the individual customer does not get the personal attention that is his due. If the same feeling exists in the country there is no excuse for it in our case. This bank is not large enough to neglect any business entrusted to its care and believes that its smaller depositors are entitled to the same attention and service that it gives to its large customers. Any account, however small, is an evidence of good will and we value it accordingly.

TRIAL OF PROF. KARL HAU BEGUN

WASHINGTON MAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING WIFE'S MOTHER.

BEFORE GERMAN COURT

Defendant Refuses to Explain Many Suspicious Circumstances—First Day's Evidence Bad for Him.

Karlsruhe, Germany, July 18.—A case that has attracted attention in two continents came up for trial here Wednesday when Karl Hau, formerly professor of Roman law in George Washington university, Washington, D. C., was brought before the bar on the charge of having murdered his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor, a wealthy resident of Baden Baden, in that city on November 6 last.

The selection of a jury occupied only ten minutes, after which the presiding judge put Hau through a searching examination that lasted several hours. Hau was unable, or unwilling, to explain many of his actions, with regard to which the prosecution has pursued a careful investigation, such as the wearing of disguises and their secret disposition, and the sending of telegrams to himself. He declined to explain his connection with a telegram asking his wife's mother to come to Paris, and refused also to answer various questions regarding his domestic relations, although repeatedly warned by the judge that he was jeopardizing his case.

Unfavorable to Hau.

Altogether the testimony Wednesday was considered very unfavorable to the defendant. The judge declared that one provision of the will left by Hau's wife, who, recently committed suicide, which he read and which provided that her little daughter should assume another name, indicated that Mrs. Hau was convinced of her husband's guilt.

Oiga Molitor, who was with her mother when the murder was committed, told of the shooting, which was done by a man who ran away so quickly that she was unable to recognize him in the dark. The collar of the man's coat was turned up, but the coat she recognized as one similar to that worn by Hau. She did not see the man's face. This witness, who has been mentioned as having had relations with Hau that caused jealousy on the part of Mrs. Hau, gave an emphatic denial to such reports.

Various other witnesses were examined and they testified to having recognized Hau in the false beard that he wore at times.

DEADLY HEAT IN PITTSBURG.

Ten More Persons Succumb—Intense Suffering in Factories.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 18.—Ten fatalities due to the intense humidity and oppressive heat wave occurred here Wednesday, making over a score of deaths within the past 36 hours. The maximum temperature registered Wednesday by the United States weather bureau was 84 degrees. Street thermometers registered from four to six degrees higher.

Many persons are prostrated and their condition is serious. The suffering in the mills and manufacturing districts is worse than has been experienced for years. People cannot sleep and through the streets and parks for a breath of air.

Dives to His Death.

Iowa City, Ia., July 18.—Bohumil Kosderka, aged 37, city bathhouse custodian, made a 30-foot dive to death from the Iowa river bridge Wednesday night. He struck a log, was carried over the Iowa university dam and drowned within eight of hundreds of onlookers. Kosderka had made the jump four times successfully before. He had saved 11 lives in the Iowa river in the past two years.

WIRE STRIKE TO CONTINUE.

Small Wants Executive Board to Meet in Chicago Tuesday.

Oakland, Cal., July 18.—After a meeting of the telegraphers in West Oakland Wednesday President Small said:

"I expect to leave Oakland within the next 48 hours for Chicago. I will recommend that our executive board meet in that city next Tuesday. The insinuation that there exists friction between the officers of the union is nonsense."

The strike in San Francisco and Oakland will continue. There are not enough telegraphers to fill the positions and there is no worry about strikebreakers. The talk about calling another strike is misleading. The telegraphers everywhere desire an adjustment of the difficulties once for all, and they want it soon. We have come to a place where we must assert our rights and I predict a change in the telegraphic world in the near future, one that will augur well for the prosperity of those engaged in the service, the stockholders of the two companies and improved service to the public."

St. Louis Plumbers Resume Work.

St. Louis, July 18.—The strike inaugurated almost three weeks ago by over 500 journeymen plumbers to enforce demands for daily wages of $8 was settled late Wednesday by compromise. The men will return to work Thursday.

SECOND CAR MADE A STOP IN THE CITY

Barnum & Bailey Crew Was Busy in the City and the Country Today.

Car No. 2 of the "Big Show" reached Janesville last night and today was busy covering the surrounding country with paper. James D. De Wolf of the press staff greeted many friends last night and today.

In speaking of the show and the fact no parade is given he said:

"The Barnum & Bailey circus is literally too big to give a parade, even if it were considered desirable."

As a matter of fact, there is no general demand for the circus parade, and every other circus management in America would cut it out if it was not a necessary means of advertising their show and arousing interest in the performances.

The remark is frequently made that the Barnum & Bailey circus is the only show in the world that would dare to eliminate the parade. The reason for this is obvious.

"Barnum & Bailey do not need the parade as a means of advertising the show or attracting the public to the circus grounds. The Barnum & Bailey name, its great reputation, and the fact that the public is absolutely assured of a superb performance are sufficient to crowd its display. A parade is undoubtedly a good advertisement for a show that needs it. Barnum & Bailey do not need it. Who ever heard of an Irving, a Southern, or a Marlowe giving a street parade? In the dramatic world parades are confined to repertoire shows, minstrel, and Uncle Tom's Cabin aggregations. No circus can afford to be grouped in such a class, and a circus that cannot crowd its tents without a street parade has something wrong with its performance and reputation."

"There are, of course, other reasons for eliminating the parade besides the belief that parades are no longer necessary for advertising purposes. If we could be absolutely sure of arriving in town by daybreak, day after day, it might be possible to give the parade simply as a free offering to the public; but with our five long trains of cars, this is too much to expect of the railroad companies. In many instances it is eight or nine o'clock before the last section arrives, and then o'clock before it is unloaded and the paraphernalia transferred to the show grounds. This leaves just sufficient time to erect the big tents and prepare for the afternoon performance. To take several hundred men away from the show grounds at the most critical time in the morning, in order to give a parade, would mean delay in opening, and consequent discomfort to the public. To compel thousands of people to stand out in front of the entrance, in the hot sun or rain, because the giving of the parade has delayed the opening for an hour or more, is positively cruel. It is frequently too heavy for the show grounds to carry, but they are uncomfortable wait on the streets pending the always more or less delayed procession, which at best has nothing new to offer, to say nothing of the interference with public traffic and the business of the city's merchants. Many municipal governments have recognized the latter fact by either refusing to give licenses for parades, or by making the tax so high as to be prohibitive."

"The elimination of the street parade means a very much better performance in every way. The horses and elephants, instead of being worn out by several hours' marching through the streets are rested, fresh and full of life and ginger; the performers, not being overworked, give their acts with a dash and 'go' that is refreshing, and even the animals in the menagerie, instead of being sleepy and incoherent from their tour through the streets, are wide awake, and for this reason, doubly attractive."

"At first there was considerable skepticism on the part of the press as to the wisdom of the new departure, but criticism from this source has entirely ceased. Day after day, in cities where the show has exhibited, the management is commended for their good sense and foresight."

The absence of the parade is, according to all reports, more than compensated for by this year's arena acts and "thrillers." There are a number of big sensations, and the structural steel used in these startling acts alone utilizes the carrying capacity of several railroad cars. Incidentally, it is announced that a splendid free show will be given on the exhibition grounds daily at 11 and 5 o'clock, by Prince Youtourkey, a remarkable performer, on an elevated wire-cable.

NEW YELLOW BACKS CONFUSE PEOPLE

Uncle Sam's Issue of Ten-Dollar Certificates is Causing Considerable Annoyance.

"Look out for a new $10 bill," was the warning sent out to Janesville at large today.

Most of Janesville was already hurrying its eyesight looking for any sort of a $10 bill, but it began to look a little harder for the new one.

In the view of the bankers the new bill is deceiving. That is because it is a yellow back—a gold certificate. And the public is not accustomed to gold certificates in denominations of less than $20.

The new bill reached Janesville today. Bank tellers were quick to point out a new danger in the new bill—the danger of its being raised to $100 by an expert at that business. The $100 bill has a picture on its face of Hamilton. The portrait of Michael Hillegas adorns the $10. Michael bears some resemblance to Alexander.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

She spoke with a forced gaiety that might have deceived any one but the judge. He understood the motive of her sudden change in manner, and silently he blessed her for making his burden lighter.

"Yes, dear, it's not bad," he said. "There's not much room, though."

"There's quite enough," she insisted. "Let me see." She began to count on her fingers. "Upstairs, three rooms, oh, and above that three more."

"No," smiled the judge; "then comes the roof."

"Of course," she laughed; "how stupid of me—a nice gambel roof, a sloping roof that the rain runs off beautifully. Oh, I can see that this is going to be awfully jolly—just like camping out. You know how I love camping out. And you have a piano too."

She went over to the corner where stood one of those homely instruments which hardly deserve to be dignified by the name piano, with a cheap, gaudily-painted case outside and a tin paraffin inside, and which are usually to be found in the poorer class of country boarding-houses. Shirley sat down and ran her fingers over the keys, determined to like everything.

"It's a little old," was her comment, "but I like these rather effects. It's just like the sixteenth century spinet. I can see you and mother dancing a stately minuet," she smiled.

"What's that about mother dancing?" demanded Mrs. Rossmore, who at that instant entered the room. Shirley arose and appealed to her:

"Isn't it absurd, mother, when you come to think of it, that anybody should accuse father of being corrupt and of having forfeited the right to be judge? Isn't it still more absurd that we should be helpless and dejected and unhappy because we are on Long Island instead of Madison avenue? Why should Manhattan Island be a happier spot than Long Island? Why shouldn't we be happy anywhere? We have each other, and we do need each other. We never knew how much till today, did we? We must stand by each other now. Father is going to clear his name of this preposterous charge, and we're going to help him, aren't we, mother? We're not helpless just because we are women. We're going to work, mother and I."

"Work," echoed Mrs. Rossmore, somewhat scandalized.

"Work," repeated Shirley very decisively.

The judge interferred. He would not hear of it.

"You work, Shirley? Impossible!"

"Why not? My book has been selling well while I was abroad. I shall probably write others. Then I shall write, too, for the newspapers and magazines. It will add to our income."

"Your book, 'The American Octopus,' is selling well?" inquired the judge, interested.

"So well," replied Shirley, "that the publishers wrote me in Paris that the fourth edition was now on the press. That means good royalties. I shall soon be a fashionable author. The publishers will be after me for more books, and we'll have all the money we want. Oh, it is so delightful, this novel sensation of a literary success!" she exclaimed with glee. "Aren't you proud of me, dad?"

The judge smiled indulgently. Of course he was glad and proud. He always knew his Shirley was a clever girl. But by what strange fatality, he thought to himself, had his daughter in this book of hers assailed the very man who had encompassed his own ruin? It seemed like the retribution of heaven. Neither his daughter nor the financier was conscious of the fact that each was indirectly convicted.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until today we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until today we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and dyspeptic disorders, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unimpeachable testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by its use. It is a medicine of the heart which cures the heart and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works, which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the most accurate and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle wrapper.

with the "impediment" proceedings. Ryder could not dream that "Shirley Green," the author of the book which flayed him so mercilessly, was the daughter of the man he was trying to crush. Shirley, on the other hand, was still unaware of the fact that it was Ryder who had lured her father to his ruin.

When at last she could look herself in her room where no eye could see her, Shirley threw herself down on the bed and burst into a torrent of tears. She had kept up appearances as long as it was possible, but now the reaction had set in. She gave way freely to her pent-up feelings; she felt that unless she could relieve herself in this way her heart would break. She had been brave until now, she had been strong to bear everything and see everything, but she could not keep it up forever. Stott's words to her on the dock had in part prepared her for the worst; he had told her what to expect at home, but the realization was so much more vivid. Then to have come to this all in the brief space of a few months! It was incredible, terrible, heart rending! And what of the future? What was to be done to save her father from this impeachment which she knew well would hurry him to his grave? He could not survive that humiliation, that degradation. He must be saved in the senate, but how—how?

She dried her eyes and began to think. Surely her woman's wit would find some way. She thought of Jefferson. Would he come to Massachusetts? It was hardly probable. He would certainly learn of the change in her circumstances, and his sense of delicacy would naturally keep him away for some time even if other considerations less unselfish did not. Perhaps he would be attracted to some other girl; he would like as well and who was not burdened with a tragedy in her family. Her tears began to flow afresh until she hated herself for being so weak while there was work to be done to save her father. She loved Jefferson. Yes, she had never felt so sure of it as now. She felt that if she had him there at that moment she would throw herself in his arms, crying: "Take me, Jefferson—take me away—where you will—for I love you! I love you!" But Jefferson was not there, and the rickety chairs in the tiny bedroom and the cheap prints on the wall seemed to gibe at her in her misery.

Suddenly she thought of Jefferson's promise to interest his father in their case, and she clutched at the hope this promise held out as a drowning man clutches at a drifting straw. Jefferson would not forget his promise, and he would come to Massachusetts to tell her of what he had done. She was sure of that. Perhaps, after all, there was where their hope lay. Why had she not told her father at once? It might have relieved his mind. John Burkett Ryder, the Colossus, the man of unlimited power! He could save her father, and he would. And the more she thought about it the more cheerful and more hopeful she became, and she started to dress quickly, so that she might hurry down to tell her father the good news. She was actually sorry now that she had said so many hard things of Mr. Ryder in her book, and she was worrying over the thought that her father's case might be seriously prejudiced if the identity of the author were ever revealed, when there came a knock at her door. It was Eudoxia.

"Please, miss, will you come down to lunch?"

CHAPTER VIII.

WEIRING maelstrom of human activity and dynamic energy—the city which above all others is characteristic of the genius and vitality of the American people—New York, with its congested polyglot population and teeming millions, is assuredly one of the busiest, as it is one of the most strenuous and most noisy places on earth. Yet, despite its swarming streets and crowded shops, ceaselessly thronged with men and women eagerly hurrying here and there in the pursuit of business or elusive pleasure, all chattering, laughing, shouting amid the deafening, multitudinous roar of traffic incidental to Gotham's daily life, there is one part of the great metropolis where there is no bustle, no noise, no crowd, where the streets are empty even in daytime, where a passerby is a curiosity and a child a phenomenon. This deserted village in the very heart of the big town is the millionaire's district, the boundaries of which are marked by Carnegie hill on the north, Fifth and Madison avenues respectively on the west and east. There is nothing more mournful than the outward aspect of these princely residences which, abandoned and empty for three-quarters of the year, stand in stately loneliness, as if ashamed of their isolation and utter uselessness. Their blinds drawn, affording no hint of life within, enveloped the greater part of the time in the stillness and silence of the tomb, they appear to be under the spell of some baneful curse. No merry voiced children romp in their carefully railed off gardens, no sounds of conversation or laughter come from their hermetically closed windows, not a soul goes in or out; at most, at rare intervals, does one catch a glimpse of a gorgeously arrayed servant gliding about in ghostly fashion, supercilious and suspicious and addressing the chance visitor

In awed whispers as though he were the guardian of a house of affliction. It is, indeed, like a city of the dead.

So it appeared to Jefferson as he walked up Fifth avenue, bound for the Ryder residence, the day following his arrival from Europe. Although he still lived at his father's house, for at no time had there been an open rupture, he often slept in his studio, finding it more convenient for his work, and there he had gone straight from the ship. He felt, however, that it was his duty to see his mother as soon as possible; besides he was anxious to fulfill his promise to "Shirley" and find what his father could do to help Judge Rossmore. He had talked about the case with several men the previous evening at the club, and the general impression seemed to be that, guilty or innocent, the judge would be driven off the bench.

Europe, thought Jefferson as he strode quickly along, pointed with envy to America's unparalleled prosperity. It spoke with bated breath of her great fortunes. Rather should they say her gigantic robberies, her colossal frauds! As a nation we were not proud of our multimillionaires. How many of them would bear the searchlight of investigation? Would his own father? How many millions could one man make by honest methods? America was enjoying unprecedented prosperity not because of her millionaires, but in spite of them. The United States owed its high rank in the family of nations to the country's vast natural resources, its inexhaustible vitality, its great wheatfields, the industrial and mechanical genius of its people. It was the plain American citizen who had made the greatness of America; not the millionaires who, forming a class by themselves of unscrupulous capitalists, had created an arrogant oligarchy which sought to rule the country by corrupting the legislature and the judiciary. The plutocrats—those were the leeches, the sores in the body politic. An organized band of robbers, they had succeeded in dominating legislation and in securing control of every branch of the nation's industry, crushing mercilessly and illegally all competition.

Jefferson turned abruptly and went up the wide steps of an imposing white marble edifice which took up the space of half a city block. A fine example of French renaissance architecture, with spire roofs, round turrets and millioned windows dominating the neighboring houses, this magnificent home of the plutocrat, with its furnishings and art treasures, had cost John Burkett Ryder nearly $10,000,000. It was one of the show places of the town, and when the "rubberneck" wagons approached the Ryder mansion and the guides through their megaphones expatiated in awestricken tones on its external and hidden beauties, there was a general craning of necks to catch a glimpse of the abode of the richest man in the world.

Only a few privileged ones were ever permitted to penetrate to the interior of this $10,000,000 home. Ryder was not fond of company; he avoided strangers and lived in continual apprehension of the subpoena server. Not that he feared the law, only he usually found it inconvenient to answer questions in court under oath. The explicit instructions to the servants, therefore, were to admit no one under any pretext whatever unless the visitor had been approved by the Hon. Fitzroy Dagley, Mr. Ryder's aristocratic private secretary, and to facilitate this preliminary inspection there had been installed between the library upstairs and the front door one of those ingenious electric writing devices, such as are used in banks, on which a name is hastily scribbled, instantly transmitted elsewhere, immediately answered and the visitor promptly admitted or as quickly shown the door.

Jefferson did not have to ring at the paternal portal. The sentinel within was at his post. No one could approach that door without being seen and his arrival and appearance being signaled upstairs. But the great man's son headed the list of the privileged ones, so without any of the smartly dressed funkey opened wide the doors, and Jefferson was under his father's roof.

"Is my father in?" he demanded of the wop.

To Cure Rheumatism

The excessive accumulation of uric acid must be eradicated from the system. Dr. Miles' Nerve used as directed for rheumatism, is alkaline in nature. It neutralizes this acid, and its soothing effect upon the irritated condition of the nerves relieves pain and induces sleep and rest.

"I was suddenly taken with a severe pain in my foot. My physician would not tell what was the trouble. In a few days I had the same trouble with the other foot. I was so crippled that I could scarcely walk and at times I had to crawl on my hands and knees from my bed down stairs. After having my shoes on for an hour or two I could manage to walk by suffering the pain. I suffered more or less all summer, and tried almost everything but to no relief. Then I began to use Dr. Miles' Nerve. My doctor told me I had an acute attack of rheumatism. I was in the hospital for weeks, but I was ready about to walk when I left the hospital. Dr. Miles' Nerve brought me back and also wrote Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice. They advised me to add salicylate of soda to the Nerve. I did so and was able to get better from the start and for the past six months have scarcely any pain, and am as well as ever."

HEROISM BY MEN ON THE GEORGIA

CAPT. MCCREA TELLS INCIDENTS OF THE AWFUL DISASTER.

COURAGE OF RESCUERS

Plunging Unhesitatingly Into the Turbulent "How One Man Died to Prevent Still Worse Explosion."

Boston, July 18.—On board the Georgia in Boston harbor Wednesday afternoon, Capt. Henry McCrea told the story of the disaster on board the battleship on Monday, which has cost the lives of nine men of the United States navy and caused injury, in some cases probably fatal, to 13 others. Capt. McCrea said:

"I was on the bridge making the run for the practice. I was taking observations of each shot. I saw we were beating the records of the other ships of the fleet. On the bridge I could hear the command from the after turret. So I knew when the next shot was coming.

"Bravery of Rescuers. "I heard the shout 'Fire,' but there was no shot, and then I saw men running aft, and quickly the fire hose, that is always laid out in readiness when there is firing going on, was manned.

"I rushed to the after bridge near the turret to see what was the matter. The water was already being poured into the turret. The boatswain and Midshipman Gravesroed led the way for their men with the hose. I tell you, there was courage! No man knew what had happened and no man knew into what danger he might be rushing. But those men never thought of self, or danger. That brave act will live on their records.

"Gave His Life For Others. "Probably one little act, or rather one great act, of one of the men, prevented a far greater disaster. I don't know his name. He's dead. He and one other stood by the second gun that had just been loaded. The last powder bag that had been put in was protruding a little from the gun.

When he saw the flash, instead of dashing to the ladder to save himself, he crowded home the charge in the gun and with the help of the other men got the gun closed before the flames reached the bag. If the flames had touched that bag, there would have been an awful explosion, for the powder was confined in the gun and would not have flashed as the other did, but would have exploded. Not a man in the turret would have been left alive, whatever other damage might have been done. That man gave his life for the others.

"I am told President Roosevelt has inquired about a man that gave his life in closing the shutter from the ammunition room to save the ship from blowing up. I will be very wrong to have a story like that go out, because I cannot find that there is any foundation for it, or need for a man to make any attempt to do anything of the sort. But if the president wants heroism let him look up this brave man who stood by his gun to save the rest."

CAID MACLEAN, ESCAPES, Raisuli's Prisoner Regains Freedom and Seeks Sanctuary.

Tangier, July 18.—Added by sections of the Elkes, the Beniarsous and the Beniarsous tribes, Caïd Sir Harry MacLean has succeeded in escaping from the hands of the bandit Raisuli. He has taken refuge in the inviolable sanctuary of the territory of the Marabout of Zaouia Yonidli.

It is suggested that Raisuli connived at the escape of the caïd as the best way out of a difficult situation.

Balloonist's Startling Feat.

New York, July 18.—Members of an Employees' Benefit association who engaged Balloonist W. A. Meeker to make an ascent and parachute drop at a Harlem river picnic Wednesday evening got more than their money's worth. Meeker not only went up 2,000 feet, but when his parachute attachment failed to work he jabbed holes in the hot air bag and made a descent that startled the spectators. Missing a ducking by good luck, the balloonist made a flying jump and landed on the Willis avenue bridge practically unharmed.

Carnegie Gives Cleveland $123,000. Cleveland, O., July 18.—A gift of $123,000 to the city of Cleveland by Andrew Carnegie, for library purposes, was announced by Librarian W. H. Brett Wednesday. Three years ago Mr. Carnegie gave the city $350,000. With this sum of money five branch libraries were completed. With the additional gift of $123,000 two more branches will be constructed.

WOMAN'S BODY EXHUMED

GRAVE OF MRS. MAGILL OPENED WITH GREAT SECRECY.

Vital Organs Taken to Chicago, Where They Will Be Examined for Traces of Poison.

Clinton, Ill., July 18.—With utmost secrecy the body of Mrs. "Pet" Magill was exhumed Wednesday night, and in the glimmer of dim oil lights, in the little cottage in Woodlawn cemetery, with only ten persons present, the vital organs were taken from the body.

The organs were taken back to Chicago by Drs. Adolph Gehrmann and J. A. Wessner of the Columbus laboratory. The Chicago men arrived at 9:30 and were taken directly to the cemetery, where they found the disinterred casket and a corps of Clinton physicians, Drs. C. W. Barnes, J. M. Wilcox, J. C. Myers, George S. Edmundson and C. S. Bogardus, awaiting their arrival.

Undertaker G. L. Oakman was in charge of the disinterment, and to avoid the possibility of a crowd-gathering about the grave to witness the gruesome sight, the removal of the body was planned quietly. Not even the attorneys for the defense were informed. Policemen were stationed about the cemetery and a number of persons who had "gotten wind" of the plans and hastened to the cemetery were ejected.

Before their departure for Chicago Drs. Gehrmann and Wessner were seen. They said: "We will subject the organs to a number of tests. They will be in the main, for strychnine poisoning."

SCHMITZ JURY APPROACHED.

Two Members Tell Grand Jury of Efforts to Bribe Them.

San Francisco, July 18.—Charges that efforts were made to bribe two members of the jury which tried and convicted Mayor Schmitz on the charge of extortion were laid before the grand jury Wednesday morning at a special session convened for the purpose of hearing the evidence. The two jurymen involved in these charges are Royal W. Cudworth and Charles D. Cish, both of whom gave their testimony.

Cudworth and his wife both told the grand jury of the efforts that had been made to communicate with him while he was locked up at the St. Francis hotel with his fellow jurors. Juror Cish gave testimony showing efforts had been made to reach him while the case was on trial.

Edward R. Taylor received his commission as mayor from the clerk of the board of supervisors. He immediately proceeded to the office of County Clerk Harry I. Mulcreary, where the oath of office was administered.

STEAMER ALLEGHANY BURNED.

Passengers and Crew Saved, Vessel a Total Loss.

Savannah, Ga., July 18.—The big coastwise steamer Allegany, one of the crack vessels of the Merchants & Miners Transportation company, caught fire as the vessel, outward bound from Savannah to Philadelphia, was passing Tybee island Wednesday night and was destroyed by the flames.

All of her 32 passengers and her crew were saved, but the ship, her cargo and all baggage on board, is a total loss.

The first cry of fire sent several excited passengers to the rails and the members of the crew prevented a number from jumping overboard. After the first few minutes order was restored and in the ship's boats and in boats sent out from Fort Screven, manned by soldiers, every person was brought ashore.

FITZSIMMONS EASILY BEATEN.

Jack Johnson Ends Fight with Light Blow in Second Round.

Philadelphia, July 18.—Jack Johnson stopped "Bob" Fitzsimmons in the second round of a six-round boxing bout before the Washington Sporting club Wednesday night. Fitzsimmons did not show a trace of his former prowess and it is probable that Johnson could have stopped him in the opening round if he had cared to do so.

The blow that put "Fitz" out was a light right to the jaw. The old man fell to the floor and as he made no attempt to rise the referee stopped the bout. The hitting which usually follows knockouts of this character was absent, the spectators evidently taking compassion on the former pugilistic star.

Military Prisoners Escape.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 18.—Charles A. Arlington and Charles Clark, military prisoners, confined in the Fort Leavenworth guardhouse, Wednesday afternoon bound the hands and feet of Private Brainerd, a sentry, and, after chopping the shackles from their ankles with an ax, made their escape.
